MODEL UNITED NATIONS

GLOBAL PERSPECTIVES

DIPLOMATIC AGENCIES

HUMANITARIAN ORGANIZATIONS

The International Relations degree offers students the opportunity to study international politics, history, societies, and cultures. It is an interdisciplinary program focused on the way countries and governments function around the world, interact with each other on the global stage, and how those interactions affect other countries. International Relations graduates can pursue careers in international organizations such as the United Nations, non-profits (NGOs), private and public sector positions with global exposure, and many will find that it is a good base for further graduate study

UNITED NATIONS – INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

The United Nations/International Relations club (UNIR-C) is a recognized student organization. Membership of the club include students majoring in International Relations, Political Science, History and others in the Social Sciences and beyond. UNIR-C was established in 1993/4 for the purpose of promoting global awareness on campus and the larger community. Its focus is on major current events and vital international issues. Its activities include sponsoring and promoting relevant events on campus, from lectures to film reviews to discussion/study groups. One of UNIR-C’s major, annual activities is participation in the Arrowhead Model United Nations Conference, either on campus or at one of the participating Midwestern colleges/universities.
